

Overheard...

George Walther-Meade | May 3, 2018

Mark Weinberger, EY's Global Chairman & CEO sums up what's needed in employees of the future... and it's quite simple.

Overheard in a recent interview between Milken Institute Chairman Michael Milken and EY Global Chairman and CEO - Mark Weinberger:

Michael Milken: What skills are we going to need for the future?

Mark Weinberger: We don't know. Because today we're hiring someone for a job that doesn't exist today. Who will be using technology that hasn't been invented to solve a problem we don't know we have.... So what type of skills do you need to survive in that environment?

You need a mindset as much as a skillset.

You need to constantly be desiring to learn.